It has a bit of presence about it. It's fruit-driven and accessible but its reach through the finish is uncommonly long, its notes of cool alpine herbs serving to refresh. The word 'layered' (used on the back label) is apt.

Quite a few MR SSB come through the door, and I reckon I get through more of them than some other styles. They're not particularly taxing to taste.

Light sweet grassiness over subtle tropical fruit and grapefruit, maybe a little vanilla. It's gentle in the mouth, with an attractive chalky texture, crunchy gin and tonic with a squeeze of lime in the aftertaste. Goes very well. Good to drink. 91 or 92, or thereabouts.

It has a bit of presence about it. It's fruit-driven and accessible but its reach through the finish is uncommonly long, its notes of cool alpine herbs serving both to refresh 94 and complex. The word layered (used on the back label) is apt.
